MEMORANDA. The directors of the New York Central and Hudsen River Railroad Company met this morning at ten o'clock, and declared the regular half yearly dividend of four per cent, payable on the 15th proximo. The transfer books will close next Saturday, 14th inst.

A sale was made at the Exchange Salesroom of $1,000,000 Lake Shore and Michigan Southern Railroad 7 per cent bonds, due 1903, at 90, which were said to have been purchased by Commodore Vanderbilt, while, per contra, it is said they were bought in.

A slight clerical error occurred this morning in the figures respecting the Eric Railroad, which, as it was so apparent as to correct itself, and did not affect the argument, we permit to go without further review.

THE GOODRICH TRAGEDY.

Another Confession of the Alleged Murderess.

Lizzie King, alias Kate Stoddard, the alleged murderess of Charles Goodrich, has made another statement touching her connection with the tragedy. She has had this confession copyrighted and entered according to the act of Congress. It was published with her permission in the Brooklyn

Union of yesterday.

The only thing new in the statement is as to whatshe said occurred after the Degraw street case on the night of the murder. She says that Goodrich went out during the early part of the evening for the purpose of seeing some parties about some business which he did not explain, and did not return until after ten o'clock. Kate goes on to business which he did not explain, and did not return until after ten o'clock. Kate goes on to say:—

I noticed that he appeared very melancholy and depressed. When I askel him the cause of his low spirits he answered me evasively that he had a headache, and thought he could drive it away if he smoked a cigar. So I left him in the dining room and went up stairs to go to be did the table, untolding the New York Times. He had taken off his boots and put on his shippers, as it was his castom to do every evening. After going up stairs I went to sleep. I presume i had slept over two hours. I was awakened by the report of a firearm of the state of the stairs was locked. It was not locked when I went up stairs. I went through the Airched when I went up stairs. I went through the Airched went up stairs. I went through the Airched with his own silver planted revolver near his feet, his arm was party outstretched. I knew no one had entered the house because the basement door front was locked and barred. The police found it just as Charlie had fastened it. Up stairs the doors were securely latch key. No one had a latch key. I recall distinctly the smell of the powder as I entered the from. I was amazed but not irightened. I took his head immediately in my arms. I pressed my lips to his. Mis mouth was quice warm. He had not smoked and spicage trial eventual the side of his head just back of the temple. As I held him in my arms his face grew chilled and cold as marble. I never saw any one die, and old not know it when he was dead. From the moment I tound him I did not olice the least change on his head upon the floor. His boots took by the nearth where he left them. I placed them under his head; also a piece of carpet that was on the hearth. A WOMAN'S DEFENCE OF HER HONOR. Sr. Louis, Mo., March 10, 1874.

While Mrs. Carpenter, a widow, living on the corner of Fifth and Kowa streets, in Leavenworth, Kansas, was at work in her kitchen yesterday, John White, of the Fifth infantry band, entered the room, locked the door and made improper adroom, locked the door and made improper advances to her. She ordered him to leave the premises, but he refused to go, and she then threatened to shoot him, to which he replied, "Shoot and be damned," whereupon she went into an adjoining room, returned with a pistol and shot him through the head. A coroner's jury pronounced the killing justifiable.

Meeting of the American Geographical Society at the Historical Society's Rooms Last Night-Hon, J. M. Francis Paper.

A meeting of the American Geographical Society was held last night at the rooms of the Historical Society, Second avenue. After the regular business and the admission of a large number of members Judge Daly, the President, called upon the Secretary to read a communication from "The German Association for Polar Exploration."

The Hon. John M. Francis, recently United States Minister to Greece, read a paper on "Greece As It la," He said:

Mr. Fresident, Frelows of the American Grognaphical Society, Ladiks and Gentlemes:—I propose to speak of Greece as it is. Ancient Greece I need not here discuss, you know it as it was, with all its grand associations, its elements of knowledge and poetic inspiration constituting the basis of our commen civilization. Nor shall I dwell upon the circumstances of its achievement of national independence after subjection for hundreds of years to jurnish domination. The Greece of to-day claims our attention. It is a living resulty. Athens was largely rebuilt under the relan of King Otho, and bears a striking resemblance to German ciues in the peculiarity of its edifices. It has many imposing and costly public and private buildings. Among the edifices nearly completed are the Academy of Art, the Polytechnic Institution and Museum and the French Academy, each lightful boulevards. The work of building and city improvement now going on it very large, reminding one of the progress of our enterprising American cities. Thus, there are fine streets and delightud boulevards. Now there are four large institutions at Athens, having branches in all the principal towns of the kingdom, with a paid-up capital of some $12,000,000. The issuing of land, the criminal of their circulation is now about $7,000,000. This would be equivalent to a paper currency in the United States, the population of the two countries taken into account, of about $2,000,000, which was the volume of our paper money before we entered upon the country of the Child States, and the state of the country of the countries taken into account, of about $2,000,000, which was the volume of our paper money before we cantered upon banks of Greece are sould institutions, and specie payments have always been maintained by them. In addition to bank notes there is a great deal of fool, silver and copper money in circulation; the gold consisting of a country of the country, our own American half-dollar otten appearing in the variety affoct, and consisting of the four principal instrance companies of Greece aggregates $1,656,000. Greece stands next to Germany in educational enterprise. Attendance at the public schools embraces about three-fourths of the children between the ages of five and sixteen. The Arsakeon is a large and very popular institution for female education, with an attendance of about 1,030 pupils. The flev. Dr. J. H. Hill and Mrs. Hill estaolished a school in Athens more than forty vears ago. Mrs. Hill is entitled to the honor of having been the pioneer of female education in Greece. This school, with an average attendance of nearly 500 pupils is still maintained with efficiency under the direction of Mrs. Mur, and there is a mather school at the Doctor's parsonage, of which Miss Masson is the very capable principal. Miss kyle has an excellent school of 80 to 150 pupils. Mr. and Mrs. Sakellarios maintain at institution, admirably conducted, for the free teaching of poor children, with an attendance of about 150 pupils mostly Cretan children, all these schools, with the exception of the Arsakeon, are under American principals ship and paironage, and have done and are doing much good by the free discentiance of about 150 pupils and societies in Greece, or which scheme recorporation and societies in Greece, or which scheme or the members, by means of literary exercises, debates, &c.

Winter is the best season for visiting Athens, but the weather is delightful also in March and April and up to the middle of May. The winters in Greece, especially in Attica, are charming, such cerulean skies, wonderful sunsets and clearness and purity of atmosphere I have nowhere else seen and experienced. Standing on the Acropolis of Mars Hill, and jooking across the Ægean Sea, one can see the Acro-Corinthus, in Corinth, a distance in a straight line of more than forty miles, quite as distinctly as equally large objects can be discerned here a distance of eight or ten miles. Greece is literally a land
